

Associate Solution Architect DACH

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am applying for the Associate Solutions Architect DACH role because it matches how I like to work: understanding how a customer's business really runs, translating those needs into practical SaaS solutions, and clearly explaining where value is created. As a native German speaker with an M.Sc. in Business Analytics and experience in data governance and consulting-style work at Fidelity International, I am comfortable running discovery, mapping processes, and turning requirements into implementable architectures.

In previous roles I partnered with stakeholders across Finance, Operations, and Legal to understand their challenges, design data and system solutions, and present them to senior decision-makers. This customer-facing, solution-oriented way of working aligns well with HubSpot's focus on technical advising, solution design, and building roadmaps that drive platform adoption. I also bring hands-on experience with APIs, data pipelines, and automation from my thesis and projects, which helps me think in systems and see integration opportunities beyond individual features.

I am excited by HubSpot's culture of solving for the customer, learning fast, and experimenting with AI-powered tools, and I would value the chance to grow from foundational engagements into increasingly complex architectural work. I would be happy to discuss my motivation and fit for the role in more detail.

Sincerely,

Philipp Götting
