Dear Hiring Manager,

Parloa's voice-first GenAI platform and its mission to turn contact centers into value centers strongly resonate with me. I'm excited to help scale enterprise outbound, build a predictable revenue engine, and demonstrate clear ROI to DACH customers as a Business Development Executive.

I bring 3+ years of experience in customer-facing roles across enterprise data platforms and recruitment consulting. At Fidelity International (€35.4B platform), I led discovery conversations with Finance Directors, IT Managers, and Compliance Officers, assessed operational challenges, and worked with senior stakeholders to prioritize solutions—experience directly applicable to enterprise prospecting and qualification.

Previously, in recruitment consulting across Switzerland and Germany, I generated new business through targeted outbound and built long-term client relationships. Alongside this, my M.Sc. thesis involved building Python and SQL pipelines processing 200M+ transactions, giving me a strong technical foundation to understand and position complex SaaS solutions.

As a native German speaker fluent in English, with extensive international experience, I thrive in fast-moving, collaborative environments like Parloa's. The Berlin hybrid setup is an ideal fit, and I'm motivated to contribute to Parloa's DACH growth.

Best regards,

Philipp Goetting
